PREFACE

God has created this world, and everything in it has some meaning. It is for man to discover the message or meaning hidden therein by nature. Ancient civilisations like those of the Hindus, Greeks, Romans, Chaldeans, Chinese and Sumerians considered these messages to be significant in the context of the fate, destiny and personality of man. Every country in the world uses these messages in one form or another, contained maybe, in its folk songs or customs.

There are many who ridicule the Occult Sciences, simply because they have no knowledge about them.

This reminds me of an interesting conversation between Newton, the renowned scientist, and his friend Helley, who did not believe in astrology.

Helley: I do not believe in astrology, Mr. Newton.

Sir Isaac Newton: I have studied it. So I believe in it.

Mr. Helley: You have not studied it.

These remarks hold good for every critic, particularly of the Occult Sciences.

Every human being dreams. Dreams as well as omens have significance. In the Ramayana, Mahabharata and Shrimad Bhagavad Gita there are many instances of interpretation of dreams and omens.

Moles on a man's body convey some meaning. Twitching of certain parts of the body indicates forthcoming events.

A person's personality can be gauged by his "handwriting".

The use of lucky charms, signs and Tantric articles is advocated to mitigate evil influences and to attain health, wealth and happiness.

Modern Yantras like Crystal Ball Gazing and the Mystic Eye are other means discovered by the Occult Sciences.

Various aspects of the “Occult Sciences” have been grouped in this book for easy consultation by the laymen, astrologers, palmists, readers and the public at large.

I am indebted to the ancient seers and saints whose works I have referred to while writing this book.

BIRTH SUN SIGNS

Everybody is curious to know about his future. A birth chart or horoscope based on one's date, time and place of birth is a guide to predictions. Everyday, one reads newspapers, journals and magazines which forecast daily, weekly or monthly predictions based on one's SUN SIGN, viz, from the sign where sun is posited in one's birth chart. This sign is the SUN SIGN.

Studying your Sun sign in magazines, journals and newspapers may impress you with accuracy more often than not, but they are far from being infallible. Only the natal chart is reliable.

Study your Sun sign from the table provided. Sometimes the dates shown are slightly different from other books with a difference of one or two days. This difference is called the cusp which should not confuse you. The important thing is to establish through your birth hour, the exact position of Sun; so make a small allowance for cusps.

To know accurately, you must know your ascendant and Moon sign. The blending of the three signs—Sun, Ascendant and Moon—will indicate your complete personality to a remarkable degree of accuracy.

In the absence of a horoscope, your Sun sign can benefit you, to be cool and poised and to help you to maintain good relations with all. In fact, by understanding the twelve Sun signs thoroughly you understand people better. You will feel at ease with strangers and close to your friends, relatives, lover or beloved.

There is a difference of one Sun sign in Western astrology and Hindu astrology systems. According to Western astrology, Sun enters Aries sign on 21st March, whereas in the Hindu system, Sun enters Aries sign on 14th April. This 25 days difference causes a difference of one Sun sign.

To determine which system to follow, the readers should check the personality traits according to the Hindu system as provided in this book and then read as per the Western system.

Take for example, a man born on 14th October. According to the Western system he is Libra whereas as per the Hindu system he is Virgo. The difference between the traits of these two signs is much. He should check both and decide for himself.

PHYSIOGNOMY OF WOMEN

Chiromancy or physiognomy are two distinct sciences. Chiromancy means reading one's fate through lines or palmistry. Physiognomy means reading one's character by face and appearance.

Physiognomy is said to have originated in India. It spread to Iran, Rome, and France. Later, this science was taken up by America and Britain. All countries have made further research into this part of science.

It is believed that the body of a woman consists of 32 parts. Beauty is nature's gift and is admired by everybody all over the globe. Everybody wants a beautiful wife. The modern youth believes in facial beauty, charming eyes, good height etc., which are only superficial features.

Our sages have indicated in a clear way the good and bad qualities of the various parts of the body of a man and a woman.

Following the laws of nature, we find that the temperament and habits of a woman vary from one individual to another and likewise the body parts. If equality had been a rule of nature then all women would have been either beautiful or ugly. Fortunately or unfortunately that is not so. The measure of beauty does not lie in material things but in a proportionate body and body parts, which we shall now deal with in detail.

The beauty of a woman is to be judged on the whole. Generally five body parts should be big; they are eyes, nose, knees, breasts and eyebrows. Fingers, hairs on head, nails and texture of the body should be soft and thin. The waist, the neck, calf muscles and ears should be small and tender. Breasts, shoulders, forehead and nose should be high. Soles of feet, tails of eyes, nails, palate, tongue, lips and palms, these seven parts should be tinged with red in colour. Thighs and mouth should be broad and big. These are the general and normal proportionate sizes of the different parts of the body of a woman.

Measurements

In this case, the height of a woman should normally be equal to seven times the length of hand stretch or what is known as Balisht (from the tip of the thumb to the tip of the little finger when the fingers are spread out to their maximum stretch, which is normally 9 inches), it is then considered a good height. The length of legs should be equal to the length of the trunk of the body. The girth of neck should be half that of the head.

The distance between the neck and the shoulder should be equal to twice the distance between the nose and the ears.

This is the standard measurement of beauty as prescribed by our sages. We are not sure if all these measurements are being followed in national or international beauty contests.

18. If the lips and tongue are red and the body is soft, then she will be very intelligent, wealthy and respected everywhere.
19. If the nose is small, the teeth are long, the palate and tongue are of black colour and the waist and thighs are big, such a woman will be unlucky.

20. If a woman's teeth are fine, white and small, if she has a thin waist and is of short stature, wheatish coloured, sweet of speech, she will be beautiful, wealthy and lucky.
21. If the teeth of a woman are irregular and separated, and her hands and feet are big and long, she will have loose morals.
22. If bluish or blackish veins are seen on the tongue, thighs and feet of a woman, she will bring misfortune. She will ruin everything, even if she marries a wealthy man.

PHYSIOGNOMY OF MEN

In the previous chapter, we have expounded the meaning of Physiognomy and Chiromancy as also the parts ruled by different planets and signs.

Now we explain the physiognomy of men.

1. Height

A tall man with well-proportioned body parts is lucky and leads a comfortable life. A short-statured man is sexy in nature, often he is clever and cunning, subject to other conditions detailed below.

2. Head

If the head is round and big in size, it denotes that such a person will be a good administrator and will hold a good position in life. When the head is level and full of hair, it indicates an intelligent, witty nature full of good qualities. If the head is more broad than long, it means that such a person will be unlucky and devoid of wealth. If the head is small, the person will be devoid of intelligence and will not be so lucky.

3. Hair on Head

If the hair on the head is jet-black and thick, it shows a person who is endowed with manly qualities. But when the hair is thin and black, such a person is likely to be passionate and sexy. If the hair is reddish in colour, it denotes that he will lead a life of comfort. But if the hair is thick and rough, he may be poor. If he has red-coloured hair, he may become the head of a section, community, army, etc.

4. Forehead

If the forehead is broad, the subject will be generous, intelligent and learned. And when it is short, it denotes that he will be poor and have a short life. If the forehead is high and broad, the person will be learned, intelligent and wealthy. If the forehead is curved and broad, the indications are of wealthy and spiritually inclined persons.

Often we find lines on the forehead. When there are five lines, the person lives for 100 years and amasses wealth. If there are four lines, he may live for 80 years. If there are one, two or three lines, the man will live for 40, 60 or 70 years, respectively. A person without a line is usually short-lived.

5. Eyebrows

When the eyebrows are curved like a bow, the man is wealthy and will lead a comfortable life. If they are shaped like a fish, the person may turn out to be a thief or be of a wicked nature. If the ends of the eyebrows are turned towards the tip of the nose, such persons are often mischievous and shrewd. If both eyebrows join together, the subject will be under the influence of the opposite sex but will be kind-hearted. If the eyebrows are long and bushy, the person will be conceited, selfish, and even foolhardy. If the eyebrows are broad, the person is likely to be generous. If they are hairless, such a person may be poor and unlucky.

6. Eyes

When the ends of eyes are red, it denotes that such a person is very popular amongst the fair sex. When the eyes are red, they indicate a sexy and passionate nature; the man will always like to remain in the company of women.

When the eyes are deep-sunk and deep-set, such persons are likely to be wicked, liars and unfaithful. The yellow colour of the eyes indicates that such persons are not contented in their life. But if the eyes are white, it shows intelligence; if wheatish, the man likes to work with his own hands.

When the eyes are round, the person is brave or a thief. When the eyes are round but small, he may be a liar, selfish and unfaithful. If a man is blind, he will be very intelligent. A one-eyed man is selfish and unreliable and a squint-eyed man is a cheat and a conspirator and is to be avoided.

7. Ears

When the ears of a man are small in size, it indicates his foolish nature. A long-eared person is very often intelligent. If the ears are twisted and hard like a stone, the person will be stout of body and be a wrestler. If the ear-frame is thin, the person will be either a king or a scholar, but if it is thick, he will be a cheat, unreliable and may commit evil acts.

8. Face

When the face is round, the person is quite jovial in nature, he will like to meet people. If it is big and out of proportion, the person is likely to be poor and unlucky.

9. Nose

When the nose is long and of yellow colour, the person will be wealthy, lucky and will enjoy power. When it is very long, he is shameless. If it is small, he will be religious-minded and kind-hearted. A parrot-like nose denotes that the possessor will enjoy ruling power, be wealthy, lucky and have all comforts of life. If the nose is depressed in the centre, the subject will be wicked and shrewd. When it is bulging upwards in the centre, it means that he will be a mature thinker, a good planner, wealthy and a good organiser.

10. Cheeks

When the cheeks are raised, the person is selfish. If dimples are seen while laughing or talking, the subject will be wealthy and lucky. In case the cheeks are quite broad and fleshy, the person is destined to be a ruler, a wealthy man and will enjoy power.

11. Chin

When the chin is long and hangs down, he is talkative. But when there is only a little hair on the chin, the man should be classed as selfish, of a rash temperament and a spendthrift. When there is no hair on the chin, the man is unlucky and cowardly.

12. Mouth

A big mouth indicates a bold nature. If it is broad, it is not lucky. If short, such a person will be greedy, quarrelsome and wicked.

13. Lips

When the colour of the lips is red, the person is of a sanguine nature. If it is black, white or if the lips are long or broad, they are indications of ill-luck. Such persons have a blemished character. Thin lips indicate intelligence. In case the lower lip is big and protruding, it indicates a hard-working man but he is rarely faithful.

14. Belly

When the belly is not very big but is of a good size, it indicates a lucky disposition. A long but thin belly denotes a high rank in administration. Red veins on the belly are indications of a wicked nature and of loose morals. If the veins are of blue colour, the man is lucky. The number of veins should be counted. These can be 1,2,3,4 or 5 and indicate, respectively, a person of a quarrelsome nature, sexy and passionate, fond of the opposite sex, a head of a section and a learned scholar who is intelligent. When there is no vein or line on the belly, the person is wealthy and lucky.

15. Navel

When the navel is big and round, the man is generous and wealthy. If it is deep and fleshy, he attains good rank and position in life. If it is small and uneven, he is of loose morals and poor.

16. Waist

When the waist is of a sandwich type, the man will lead a miserable life. If he has a long, broad and fleshy waist, he will be wealthy, lucky and have many children.

17. Back

There are bones at the back which may number 9,10,12 or 14; they indicate a person who is popular, wealthy, spiritually inclined or unlucky, respectively. In case there are 13 bones, he will be wealthy and lucky.

18. Thighs

Broad and fleshy thighs are an indication of good luck; if otherwise, they show bad luck. If there is thick hair, he is popular amongst women. Hairless thighs are a sign of ill-luck.

19. Calf Muscles

When the muscles of the calf are tapering, well-shaped and fleshy, they show a man to be wealthy, lucky and popular who will enjoy a good life.

20. Feet

When one has long and fleshy feet, one is wealthy and enjoys power. If the feet are of average size, one leads an average life.

21. Hair on Body

If there is thick hair on the body, it denotes a miserable life, if the hair is scanty, the man will be lucky. If the hair is thin, the man may suffer in life.

Having explained the above traits of the different parts of the body, it will be easy to foretell the nature, character and traits of a man easily and one, therefore is likely to make a good palmist, equipped with this knowledge.

4 DREAMS

Dream means “vision during sleep”. Some dreams are significant and merit interpretation. Many dreams are the result of events of the day. So a dream which refers to something that has not happened to you in your working hours within the last week or so is likely to have a special meaning, maybe a warning or promise for good or bad.

Astrologically, dreams are connected with first house, Karka; for bad dreams is Mercury. Reading of dreams is connected with “Rahu”. This has been stated in Khanda V Slokas 1,5,35 & 52 of Uttarakalamrita.

A bad dream is considered a mental disease which has been attributed to Mercury vide Sloka-5 Adhyaya XIV of Phala Deepika.

Dreams are mysterious perceptions realised when the physical body of a person is at rest. When one sleeps, the body functions as usual, so also, the mind functions. When there are no external disturbances, the body, though at rest, does not prevent sensitivity and perceptivity in the subconscious from functioning. So it appears that mind will wander or record something which the person does in his awakening state.

Dreams are seen during daytime and at night. Sometimes these dreams predict some incident or give an indication of some good events. Dreams seen during an illness or when the man is worried are not reliable. Dreams seen during the day are less reliable and their results appear after a long time.

Their Psychology and Significance

A dream has also been defined as a “Series of pictures and events seen by a sleeping person”. It is a hallucinatory experience occurring during sleep. It has a latent (disguised) content different from the manifest (literal) content by which it is remembered. It gives a cross section of the extant state of physical function. It is real so long as it lasts but is in fact unreal inasmuch as it has no factual existence.

A dream state is an intermediate state between the waking state and sound sleep. It is neither a state of consciousness nor of death. It is a fleeting phenomenon and a short duration (Atharva Veda 6-46-1). It is said that the longest dream lasts for five seconds. It starts suddenly and ends abruptly. It is an involuntary outpouring of the contents of the subconscious and the conscious mind. Dreams which cannot be connected with persons, places, activities and actions of present life presage coming events.

Dreams may be classified as under:

1. Pleasant
2. Unpleasant
3. Single
4. Composite
5. Absurd, meaningless, fantastic and baseless
6. Short
7. Realistic
8. Dreams about future events
9. Ordinary dreams which are just a continuation of routine life such as reading, writing, talking with friends etc.
10. Dreams before waking.

Dreams are a universal phenomenon. Everyone dreams, some forget and others remember them vaguely or clearly.

Dreams serve one of the following purposes:

1. To presage future events.
2. To amuse and regale the dreamer in the interval between waking state and deep sleep.
3. To cause afflictions and misery to the dreamer.
4. To serve as a safety valve for suppressed desires, unfulfilled wishes, lurking fears and anxieties.
5. To suggest guidelines for unsolved problems.
6. To disclose unknown secrets.

There are reported cases in which a deceased person appeared in a dream and informed his wife about the whereabouts of the money amassed secretly by them during their lifetime. On investigation the disclosures were found correct.

It is the mind which projects the dream and the soul which witnesses it. According to Yajur Veda (34-1,3) the mind wanders far and wide in the waking state as well as in the sleeping state, no act can be accomplished without it and it is the storehouse of memory.

It is stated in Atharva Veda (6-42-2) that Varunani is the mother of Yama, father of dreams. Some scholars have interpreted Varunani as the wife of Varun. This interpretation is incorrect, because if Varunani is the mother of dreams then Varun, being the husband of Varunani, would be their father and not Yama. The words Varun and Yama connote different meanings depending on the context in which they are used in the Vedas. The most apt meaning of Varunani and Yama as used in this hymn is darkness of the night and Sun respectively. It is evident that dreams generally occur at night which is termed as their mother. The sense organs function in daylight which emanates from the Sun. The sense organs project the dream experiences gained in daylight to the soul in a jumbled form.

There is authentic source in the Upanishads about the projector of dreams. Their expositions are summed up as under:

1. Verily mind is the yajman in the body. (Prasan U. 4-4)
2. In dreams the soul sees again whatever has been seen before, hears what has been heard before, enjoys once again what has been enjoyed in different places and quarters. It sees what has been seen, and what has not been seen, it hears what has been heard and what has not been heard. It experiences what has been experienced and what has not been experienced. It sees that which exists and that which does not exist. (Prasan U. 4-5)
3. It is the soul which sees, which hears, which smells, which tastes, which thinks and which is an action. (Prasan U. 4-10)
4. Mind is the Divine eye of the soul and soul sees objects through it. (Chandogya U. 8-12-5)
5. In dreams, the soul sometimes becomes a king, sometimes a fool, sometimes high and sometimes low. (Brihadaranyaka U. 2-1-18)
6. In dreams there are chariots, no horses, no roads, the soul creates them there. There is no happiness, amusement and laughter there; but he creates them. There are no tanks, springs and rivers but he creates them. That is why the soul is known as “doer”. (ibid. 4-2-10)
7. After entrusting to the Pranas the protection of its body which is its nest, the soul goes out in dream and roams about wherever it likes. It assumes many forms, high and low, sometimes enjoying the company of a woman or laughing or seeing fearful sights. (Brihadaranayaka U. 3-3-12,13)

The psychologists do not agree about the significance and interpretation of most of the dreams. A comprehensive investigation about the dreams and subsequent events in the life of the dreamer and matters connected with the dreamer is likely to provide a scientific basis for interpreting most of the dreams. (Vedic Light, May 87)

Periods of Dream Results

Dreams which are seen during the first part of the night indicate the results within a year. Dreams seen during the second part of night denotes the results within eight months. In the third part of the night a dream seen will give the results within three months. The results are experienced within a month of the dreams seen during the fourth part of the night. Dreams which are seen within one hour of dawn bear the results within ten days. Dreams seen in the morning give the results on the same day.

Testimony

During the tour of the sacred area of Kurukshetra a man saw a dream in which Hanumanji (lords Mars) appeared and told him that in his fields, at a fixed place, his life-size image lies buried since the great war. He should bring it out and install it in Lord Shiva's temple. Next day, the man dug up the fields and found a beautiful life-size statue of Lord Hanumanji. He cleaned and polished the same and installed it in Lord Shiva's temple. After some time when word got around and people thronged there to see it, the man decided to have a separate temple. He tried to remove the statue but all his efforts failed. The statue could not be moved in spite of all efforts, and stands there even today.

The author met the man and verified from him about the above dream.

My eldest daughter started seeing prophetic dreams after her marriage. She was warned not to disclose this to all, except in emergency cases. She too developed some spiritual powers being a devotee of Durga Ma. Her horoscope is provided for the benefit of readers.

One morning, she warned her husband not to go out of his workshop lest he meet with an accident. Being a busy man he refused to accept it. His wife declared that she would remain with him all day long. He agreed. The husband being a businessman visited many places and the day passed peacefully. In the evening when the couple neared our residence, the husband said that he had a five-minute job. But within these five minutes, his scooter crashed against a bus. My daughter, alongwith her six months boy in her lap jumped down and escaped unhurt, whereas her husband was injured with bruises. Lord Shiva saved him.

A lady told me that in her dream she picked up a flower from a lake early in the morning. Within a fortnight, her plot of land which she had purchased for fourteen thousand was sold for rupees one lakh.

From ancient times people have been interested in finding out the significance of their dreams, and through centuries a vast lore of dream interpretations has accumulated. Here are some of the more common dreams with their traditional meanings.

5 MOLES

A mole means a “permanent small dark spot on the human body” as defined in the English dictionary. Moles are found on many parts of the body and can be of honey colour, red, black and sometimes wheatish and pale in colour.

It is nature’s creation and has a definite meaning. Since ancient days moles are used as identification marks. The ancient civilisations considered moles as signifiers of fate, and showed the personality of a person.

In Samketa Nidhi, Slokas ii-25, iv-16 and vi-5 clearly indicate that moles have definite effects. The study of moles is an ancient art of astrology and is called “Moleosophy”.

The moles reveal our nature and destiny; they have a story to tell about our previous birth and present birth. They also reveal important aspects of our lives. The Science of Moles deserves propagation for the benefit of humanity. One can avert a misfortune by being warned by the effects of moles on one’s body.

In astrology, each Zodiac sign dominates a particular part of the body as summarised below:

1. Aries : Head
2. Taurus : Face, Neck, Throat, Right Eye and Nose.
3. Gemini : Arms, Shoulders, Right Ear, Upper Ribs and Right Hand.
4. Cancer : Chest, Breast, Stomach, Elbow Joints, and Lungs.
5. Leo : Heart, Liver, Belly and Back.
6. Virgo : Kidney, Abdomen and Anus.
7. Libra : Private parts, Uterus, and Lumbar Region.
8. Scorpio : Testicles, Groins and Scrotum.
9. Sagittarius : Thighs, Legs and Hips.
10. Capricorn : Knees, Nails and Knee Cap.
11. Aquarius : Legs, Ankle, Left Ear and Teeth.
12. Pisces : Feet, Left Eye and Toes.

The moles on different body parts indicate the Zodiac sign by which the person is being dominated. Moles are found by birth. But it is observed that moles appear also during one's life time. They disappear, change their size or colour which indicate change of fortune. A raised mole is called a 'Wart', it can be of any colour and is a good sign subject to its placement.

The effects of moles have many a times been verified and found correct.

The moles are also related to palmistry. Sometimes moles are hereditary.

The significance of moles differs between males and females. Generally, the moles are considered to give auspicious results in males if they are found on the right side and for females on the left side.

In case of moles, the following points are of interest to note :

1. If the number of moles on the right side of the body are more than on the left side they are auspicious and denote more of male children whereas daughters will be more, if more moles are found on the left side of the body.
2. Less than twelve moles on the body are benefic.
3. Moles on the right side of the body are auspicious.

If an individual has moles close together, he will have two serious love affairs or may be married twice.

When two moles exactly balance each other, such as moles on both knees, both cheeks etc. they indicate a person of dual nature. In almost every case, the person will be under the influence of the dual signs of Pisces and Gemini, etc.

It may be true that all spots on the body need not be moles and may not be necessary to expect that every mole should signify a particular fact or character.

Shape and Size of Moles

There are ten types of moles based on their shape as shown below :

1. Spots
2. Long and narrow

TWITCHING OF BODY PARTS

Twitching means a sudden, quick pull or nervous movement of the body parts. It is considered an omen or nature's warning, the effects of which are detailed below.

It is a maintained belief or convention in India that when the left or right side of a man twitches and the effects hold good, the opposite results can be predicted for a woman. For example, if a man's right eye twitches or throbs it means he will have success, but in the case of a woman her left eye twitching will indicate good results. The right eye of a lady twitching indicates worries. This has been found practically correct.

Vibrations generally start and cease in an instant but sometimes continue for a longer period.

HANDWRITING ANALYSIS

A person's handwriting is a guide to his character. The shape of a single letter or word if analysed properly can be a guide to the hidden character and appearance of a writer.

The handwriting indicates the nature of one's present and past growth giving a true picture of one's personality.

This science or art of reading character from one's handwriting is called Graphology.

The handwriting that evolves is as personal as your fingerprints. Pressure, size, slant, style, letter shapes, spacing and scores of other details of writing vary in everybody's script. One's writing will also change according to the mood of the moment, a change, however, which will not affect one's basic writing movements.

A man's handwriting goes on changing from childhood to youth to old age as his thinking and actions change. This is due to the fact that his nervous system acts as wires. The brain gets stimulated and the muscular system is coordinated into a more or less controlled writing movement. So with this change of his writing by stages, his changing personality can also be analysed fully.

Graphology is a science which can be studied anywhere and at anytime. To analyse fully one has to work hard and practise this science. The following guidelines can be helpful in analysing one's handwriting.

The table below helps one to check the various aspects of one's personality. Select the items on right hand side and then check the handwriting characteristics.

Handwriting Characteristics	Personality Characteristics
Spacing of writing	State of mind
Speed of writing	Amount of energy
Slope of writing	Degree of affections
Size of writing	Concentrative powers

Handwriting Characteristics	Personality Characteristics
Line of writing	State of disposition
Terminal strokes	Degree of generosity
Capital letters	Personal tastes
Small letters	Mental development
Signature	Individuality
Flourishes	Superficialities
Style	Sharpness of mind
Margins	Sense of proportion
Pressure	Emotional state

Check very carefully, the construction of words, their strokes, loop of letters, writing method of capital letters, slope of the words and other peculiar sign which one uses in his writing.

1. If the writing is big and wide, if letters are large and cover more space of the paper it indicates a generous and kind-hearted nature.
2. If the letters are small, crowded, written close to each other, the writer may be narrow-minded and stingy.
3. If the writing is average, then the writer is of an average nature but generous.
4. If the writing slopes to the left or backward, the writer has an attractive nature, loves beautiful things and has artistic feelings. Emotional and fond of the opposite sex.
5. If the letters are straight, running up and down, the writer is determined, sometimes obstinate and has a good will-power. He knows what he wants and cannot easily be diverted.
6. If the letters slope towards the right, he enjoys life, even when he is unhappy he does not remain gloomy. At times, he faces struggles with courage and confidence and gets providential help to overcome them. Broad-minded and a lover of all. Not sentimental but is influenced easily by the opposite sex.
7. During writing when the downward strokes of words are thicker than the upward strokes they denote the writer to be of a worrying nature, worrying over trifles and hence no peace of mind.
8. If the capital letters stand separated from other letters, they indicate that the man is of a easy-going nature and generous.

9. But when capital words are joined with other letters, the person is practical.
10. When letters stand separated from each other and have equal spacing between them, they indicate that the writer has some artistic talent, loves beauty, discipline and takes life easy.
11. When the loops of letters are pointed, the person is broad-minded, and is of practical nature.
12. Rounded letters in a handwriting indicate a pleasant and affectionate nature of a person.
13. When the bottom letters are blacker or darker than the top, they denote an inventive and scientific talent.
14. Usually, when a person draws a line under his signatures, it indicates pride and conceit in him, love of independence and bossing over others but inwardly being generous.
15. The method of writing has a big bearing on one's character. Words written parallel to the lines on a page, show the writer to be level-headed, even-tempered and sensible.
16. If the words run parallel to the line, above or below the line, the man has a strong strength of character and meets with success.
17. If the words run parallel to the line and across the line or even dip into the line, the writer often misses good chances of success.
18. When the letters of handwriting are properly formed they indicate the person is very methodical. His ways of working are tidy and in a planned manner.
19. Flourished letters in a handwriting denote a kind and affectionate nature.
20. If the capital letters are more artistic than the other letters the writer is of a critical nature and cruel in his behaviour with others.
21. The writing of the letter "t" should be judged critically; if the line of "t" runs over the whole word, one has strong likes and dislikes.
22. If the line of word "t" is put low down near the tip one is not kind-hearted.
23. But when the "t" is curled, convex or concave rather than a straight line, one is secretive.
24. Rounded small m's and n's indicate a childish writing.
25. Angular m's and n's indicate mature writing. Such a writer is decisive, able to understand others and be courteous.

26. Fast writing, heavy pressured letter forms, exaggerated capitals, and dots written like commas indicate a person who is highly strung.
27. How reliable a person is depends on various factors:
 - (a) If the writing is straight on the baseline it denotes a very reliable person who can be trusted to handle money in a superior position.
 - (b) When the writing runs on a wavy baseline it is termed as 'Poor'. Such persons are unreliable, careless in handling money but not dishonest.
 - (c) An irregular baseline formed during writing indicates a person easily tempted to stray from the norms of conduct. Perhaps dishonest. Never should be trusted with money.
 - (d) When writing indicates wandering baseline in convex or concave manner it indicates a mentally ill mind and therefore such a person cannot be trusted to follow a controlled standard of conduct. Unreliable but not dishonest.

Now check your level of self-respect:

- (i) If your capital 'I' is smaller in size than the rest of your capitals, then you do not believe in yourself sufficiently.
- (ii) If your capital 'I' is the same size or slightly larger than your other capitals, you have reasonable self-respect.
- (iii) If your capital 'I' is much larger than the other capitals, your self-respect is exaggerated and you will be conceited. If you are an outgoing person as well, you will tend to annoy other people.

The degree of your initiative can be checked from the pressure of your writing thus.

- (i) Light pressure in writing of words indicates complete lack of self-drive.
- (ii) Moderate pressure indicates average drive. Mildly successful.
- (iii) Heavy pressure in writing indicates a strong drive, successful in anything tried.
 - (a) In case you add hooks to heavy pressure your drive turns to irritating aggressiveness which will interfere with your success.
 - (b) If you add oversize capital letters your drive becomes selective and you become selfish and self-centred. You will be successful but you will be very unhappy because of the many feet trodden upon while climbing to the top.

Are You Frustrated?

Mr. Robert Holder has given the following checklist for a frustrated man. If any sign is present in your writing at least some frustration is present in your life. If more or all signs are found in this checklist that are present in your writing, you must take care to remove the cause of frustration.

1. Cramped, small writing.
2. 't' bars short, even pressured and crossed low on the stem.
3. Hooks, catches, and backward movement in writing.
4. Backward writing combined with heavy pressured small writing.
5. Narrow, close writing in a large hand.
6. Printed writing in a small hand, combined with heavy pressure.
7. Vertical writing in a medium hand combined with large, flourishing capitals.

8 OMENS

Omens Defined

In life we come across many unusual things, like twitching or throbbing of body parts, various call sounds of birds, moles on the body, mysterious sounds, knocks, movements of pictures, dreams, etc.

All such incidents are known as Omens and they are unintentional, sudden and unplanned. Any unnatural and unplanned action is not an omen. According to the great sage Varahamihira “Omens are indications of past deed, good or bad, that are about to bear fruits. A true Astrologer can never brush away these omens as superstitions.”

Omens are of various kinds. Some are those caused by domestic animals like horses, elephants, cats, dogs etc., or wild animals like lions, tigers, hogs, deer etc. Some omens are due to aquatic ones, namely swans, crocodiles, frogs and the like. Terrestrial ones are mongoose, serpents etc. Also omens are atmospheric (Ulkapat), diurnal or nocturnal. The sex of the creatures should be considered along with their cry, gait and utterances.

Shakoon Shastra

Shakoon Shastra means The Science of Omens. Omens may be good or bad, indicating forthcoming incidents or events. In mantra, yantra, tantra and astrology this carries a special importance but it is often neglected. In the day-to-day life, we come across many omens but many of the people ignore them or do not believe in them but later on repent.

Omens are nature’s warning, which must be followed.

Suppose a man puts a query to the astrologer or sadhaka and somebody sneezes simultaneously or a cat appears on the scene, nature has given the answer in the negative. Nature thus gives warning through omens many times.

In Hora Sara (an ancient book on astrology) Part XXXII Slokas 1-4, 5 and 6 clearly indicate the results of certain omens. These are reproduced below:

Sloka No 1-4: On a clean spot in a lonely place, the Sadhaka should seat himself comfortably, facing the Sun and saluting the preceptor, God, and all the planets, observing silence. He should closely watch all the omens as directed by Sage Siddhanta. Anyone hit by a weapon, quarrels, fall from a precipice etc. are declared as bad omens at the commencement of the predictions and they indicate death, separation or destruction of property. Should a naked medicant etc. appear on the scene, it is untoward; even a reference or talk about them is indicative of evil and certainly forebodes danger or disaster.

Sloka No 5: A cry of a lizard on the left side and a sneeze on the right side are inauspicious. So also are the howling of a jackal, the moving buffalo or a cow very near as they portend death.

Sloka No 6: A person will be able to answer queries correctly of one's future and intelligently predict good or evil, by observing omens occurring at that time within a time limit of two years.

Omens are of many kinds. Nature warns through birds, animals, through twitching of body parts, through voice, sound and its modulation, moles etc.

Some Rare Tantric Articles

We have already discussed man-made charms. But nature too has created many things, which are rare. The use of them as charms bestows health, wealth and happiness. These articles are used in Tantric Sadhana.

A few of them are detailed below :

1. Shvetarak Ganpati

White aak is a rare plant found only in the Himalayas, in the thick forest and is scarcely available in India. You will find Ganpati at the root of this aak. The aak plant in English is called Gigantia.

In our Shastras, it is laid down that in any house where shvetarak or white ganpati is available and worshipped, the house remains free from all evils and its possessor is blessed with immense wealth. This is used for pooja, when once this ganpati is awakened, nothing becomes impossible for him. You can carry this in your pocket.

2. Dakshineye Shankh

Seashells which open towards the left are commonly available, but seashells, which open towards the right are rarely found.

The right opening conch is of great value. The place of house where this conch is available becomes very lucky. This can be used in many ways in Tantric Sadhana. Amongst such conches are male shells, which again are very rare. The pooja of a conch is performed after placing it on a silver sheet daily. This is lucky for wealth and happiness. Male, female, and eunuch are the three types of this right-opening conch. Mole conch gives the sound of "Om" which is very rare.

3. One-eyed Coconut

One-eyed coconut is an emblem of wealth. On Deepawali day, this can be used in many ways for Tantric purposes. This coconut is rarely available, generally two or three-eyed coconuts are found. After attaining Sidhi of this, one can have all things through this. It is attributed as the third eye of Lord Shiva.

4. Siyar Singhi

Siyar means jackal, which has no horn but nature has provided horns to a very few jackals. These horns are called siyar singhi. This is again a rare article and many uses of this can be made in Tantra and Mantra.

A siyar singhi in the house, bestows on the person immense wealth, victory over enemies, success in law suits etc. It should be kept in vermillion powder and its hair will grow automatically. It is a good article for Sadhana.

Each siyar singhi has a small horn and this is the identity of a real siyar singhi. These are small, medium or big in size. A small sized siyar singhi is worn round the neck and is made of silver. The other two sizes can also be used by keeping it on your person. A small size siyar singhi, when worn by a child, keeps him free from the evil eye.

5. Hathya Jori

This is a wonder of nature, where two hands are joined together. They bless the sadhaka with wealth, free of any accident and free from any Tantrik effects. It is kept in vermillion powder or in sindhoor. Its sidhi is very difficult. The joined hands seem to be in prayer. It is two to two and a half inches in length and breadth.

6. One-faced Rudraksh

One-faced rudraksh is a very rare object and if available it fetches a very high price. The person who possesses it or wears it round the neck is blessed with all comforts of life and guards against heart attacks. It is used in Tantric Sidhi. This rudraksh has no natural inscription on it. In Mantra nature, Tantra and Yantra Sadhana, the purification of one-faced rudraksh is always made before wearing it. 10 CRYSTAL GAZING

Crystal gazing is an ancient art. Through it, crimes have been solved, lost articles found, hidden facts have been uncovered and unrealised aspects of relationships with others have been revealed. It also reveals the future.

Methods of Crystal Gazing

For successful crystal gazing the person should be highly sensitive and receptive.

The ability to concentrate is the way of success. Everything around should be completely shut out from your thinking.

You must have a clear crystal ball without blemishes or bubbles.

The gazer should seek to put everything out of his mind except the problem. There should be no noise in the room, otherwise it will distract and make concentration impossible.

Once your practice and concentration are complete you will see the clear crystal becoming cloudy. It will seem as if a milky cloud has floated into the crystal. This is a sign that the spell is operating. Then this cloud will change colour. It usually becomes red and then green and finally completely black as your concentration is complete. This black colour serves as a shade or curtain behind which is the information you wish to gain.

The final stage is when this black cloud rolls away as if a curtain has been lifted. Then you will see in the crystal what you are looking for. Often the rolling away of the black curtain will be so startling that you are awakened from your trance and the message is lost. If this happens, wait a bit and try again. It may take a number of sittings before you are able to master this and hold yourself in the trance.

When you do succeed, you will find behind the dark curtain sights which are meaningful in terms of your problem. You may see people, houses, places where you have never been, words or sentences, symbols or other objects which have meaning for you. To interpret these is difficult and requires imagination and understanding.

Very often, all that you can do is to describe what you see and allow the person whose life you are reading to make his own interpretations. The place you see may have a meaning for him but none for you. The face you see may be that of somebody he knows intimately.

The above are the views of "Paul Shower". But now we shall describe the Scientific Method of Training Crystal visions from the book Human Personality and Its Survival of Body Death by F.W.H. Myers, Volume 1, 1903 edition and corresponding appendices.

Can you really see anything in a crystal ball?

Crystal visions occur to a greater or lesser extent with many persons of sanity.

Perhaps one man or woman in twenty will be able by practice to develop the faculty to a point where it will sometimes convey information not attainable by ordinary means.

Is crystal gazing dangerous?

Crystal gazing appears to be absolutely harmless. I know of no kind of injury resulting from it; and I have probably heard of most experiments made with any scientific aim or care.

How to Use the Crystal Ball

Dim the Light: The first preparation for crystal gazing is to arrange the lighting in the room. A dim light is most likely to allow the seer to see a picture in the ball. Pictures may be seen in quite bright light, but never in absolute darkness.

Cover the Ball: After arranging the light, the seer should prepare the ball for viewing. The ball should be so arranged that no reflection is allowed. By this is meant that the ball should be covered with a black cloth or special cloth or else placed in a half-open drawer so that the observer gazes into it with as little distraction as possible from the reflection of his own face or of surrounding objects. When the ball is clear enough, it may be held in the hands, with just a portion revealed through the observer's spread fingers.

Practise in Private: The beginner must practise solitude to eliminate the distraction of stray reflections.

Mental State: When the light and ball have been arranged and when uninterrupted quiet has been assured, the seer should sit quietly for a few moments to attain a passive mental state, then gaze steadily but not intensely into the ball. These practice periods should not exceed ten minutes.

After three or more practice sessions the beginner will perhaps begin to see the ball clouding, or see some figure in the ball.

Pictures in the Crystal Ball: Few phenomena strike one as more fantastic and incredible than crystal visions. The visions appear flawless, one may see a skeleton, a scene of one's childhood, a nonsensical string of letters, or a picture of what a friend is doing far away.

The vision often begins with a milky clouding of the ball. Its cloudiness obscures any extraneous reflected image and out of the cloudiness is formed the clear images of the crystal vision.

The cloudiness may persist for sometime. It comes at the beginning of the series of pictures.

The Scientific Explanation of Crystal Vision : On the whole it seems safest to attempt no further explanation of crystal gazing than to say that it is an imperical method of seeing visions, of externalizing pictures which are associated with changes in the sensory portions of the brain, due partly to external stimuli, and partly to stimuli which may come from minds outside the seer's own.

Normal and supernormal knowledge and imagination are blended in strongly mingled rays. Memory, dreams, telepathy recognition, all are there along with indications of spiritual communications and a kind of ecstasy.

THE MYSTIC EYE

This is another modern Yantra being used successfully to a greater extent.

The basic use of the Mystic Eye is it Sees All-Knows All-Tells All.

This yantra can give you your birth date if it not known.

A brief note and method of use is explained as follows.

There are things in this universe that surpass anything that mortal man can envision, there are wondrous and mysterious phenomena that defy explanation and challenge credibility; there is matter, form and vision, faith, fear and folly, magnetism and mind, there is the good, the static and the evil; there is the known, the unknown and the mysterious. Do not ridicule what are you about to learn and experience, for the Mystic Eye is in truth a phenomenon of physical reaction to your conscious, subconscious and superconscious mind.

Instructions for the Use of the Mystic Eye

The Magic Eye consists of psycho-activated Pendulum and Master Chart with rays indicating Number, Months and the answers Yes and No.

Relax, hold the string of the pendulum between thumb and forefinger. Rest your elbow on the table so that the pendulum is suspended about a quarter above the "Eye" of the photo.

Think of a question or ask a question loudly or have someone else ask you a question. Remove all skepticism from your mind and concentrate your attention on the eye. The pendulum will then swing in the direction of the answer. Do not move your hand or attempt to control the motions of the pendulum. You will discover that your subconscious thoughts are as powerful as a giant motor.

Questions for Analyses

You may ask questions about the subject relative to yourself or your surroundings, your past, present or future about love, health, business, money or success. The Mystic Eye may be used as a Lie Detector or Self-Analyser!

How the Mystic Eye Responds

When you ask a question, the pendulum will start swinging in the direction of the answer. It is not necessary to stop the motion of the pendulum, when asking a new question. If the pendulum is answering "Yes" to a question, and next question calls for a "No" answer, the pendulum will automatically slow down with a circular motion and then swing to a 'No' answer.

If there is a slight delay in the motion of the pendulum, it indicates lack of concentration. This can be corrected by starting with a more jolting question.

How to Determine Birth Date

If you wish to determine the birth date of your guest or that of yours etc., handle the pendulum and proceed as follows: Ask, "What is month of your birth?" The pendulum will swing in the direction of one of the months. Should it swing to "March", you should know that March is the birth month. Next ask, "What is the first number of your birth date?" The pendulum will swing in the direction of one of the numbers. If the pendulum should swing to "2" you would know that the birth date is either 2 or in the twenties. Ask "Is 2nd the date?" If the pendulum swings to "No" then ask "what is the second number?" If the pendulum swings to "7" the birth date would be 27. Verify the birthday by asking, "Is March 27th the correct date?"

Conclusion

You are about to experience one of the thrills of your life in working with the Mystic Eye. Realize that it can be used by one or a group of people. Understand that this is also one of the psychological wonders of the world. Here is a phenomenon of physical reaction that challenges the imagination.
